

tax statute that exempted from payment women who did not register to vote did not discriminate in any manner against the right of men to vote, although it did note that the Amendment “applies to men and women alike and by its own force supersedes inconsistent measures, whether federal or State.”⁴

⁴ Breedlove v. Suttles, 302 U.S. 277 (1937).